Get In The Scrap

A great nationwide collection of scrap will get under way with the opening of schools, when an organized campaign will be conducted to unearth every item of scrap, no matter how small, and get it collected and on its way to keep up the supply of war materials.

While our neighboring incorporated cities and towns have been busily engaged for some weeks in salvage drives, there has been no concerted work in our community, owing to the fact that men, women, children and farm trucks have been working day and night harvesting and preserving the fruit and vegetable crops.

This vital work must now be carried on with extra vigor to which every one must lend his or her cooperation.

Go over every inch of house, garden and grounds with an eagle eye for every bit of the materials listed as most wanted now:

Iron and steel, rubber, copper, brass, bronze, aluminum, zinc and lead, burlap, old rags.

To contribute to this great national salvage program is the greatest opportunity for every civilian to back up our soldiers on the firing line.

Local Women Attend Luncheon

The Garden Forum Harvest Festival held in San Jose last Friday and Saturday was a great success. In the arts and crafts exhibit in the civic auditorium were examples of the work of many artists of the county, and the horticultural exhibits in the Sainte Claire hotel were many, varied and excellent.

Some two hundred people enjoyed the luncheon Saturday. Seated at one table were Mrs. Sue Boyce, Mrs. Frank Jacobson, Mrs. Ira Abbott, Mrs. J. C. Agostinho, Mrs. Charles Reynolds all of Campbell and Mrs. B. T. Morgan of San Jose, and at another, Mrs. Jesse B. Collins, Mrs. Ira Grim and Mrs. Edna F. Smith.

Noel Voge Gets Visa For Wife

After months of waiting and effort Noel Voge has received word from the state department in Washington that the application for a visa for his bride whom he left in Portugal had been granted.

The bride, a native of Jugoslavia, was with considerable effort brought to Portugal and as efforts from there seemed unavailing in securing a visa for her entry into this country, her husband came on, hoping to make better progress by personal contact and has now received his reward.

William L. Cothran of 646K Hazel avenue, left the first of the week to take civilian pilot training at Ely, Nevada, under army direction. Cothran, who leaves a wife and two children here, had been employed at Permanente and previously by the P. G. & E.

Don Soutar, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Soutar and their son-in-law, Oliver Andrues, enlisted together and left Saturday for the reception center at Monterey.

Harry Evans Is Back from Islands

Coming as a delightful surprise to his wife was the visit over the week-end here of Chief Commissary Steward Harry D. Evans, who was called back into service in the Navy more than two years ago, after being retired for several years. He had been in Campbell only once since he re-enlisted and then for only a few hours.

Evans was at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, and endured some harrowing experiences. All of his belongings were lost at that time and he had only the khaki uniform which was the only one obtainable on the islands.

He reported for duty Monday and awaited a new assignment.

Harry Evans, Jr., coxswain in the U. S. Navy was home on Friday for a short time. He has made several visits home since his enlistment.

Why should anyone buy War Bonds? There is no compulsion to buy them. There is no winter relief . . . no SS man standing outside the door saying, "Buy or else." Nothing is at stake but the future of the country . . . perhaps of the World.

What then is a stamp or bond but a vote of confidence in ourselves? In our capacity to drive on, to break all opposition and then to reconstruct upon a new and better design, a world that will be different. A world of surplus instead of one of scarcity. But a bond is more than this. It is an investment. It is something of a miracle that freedom can be bought and that in addition it should pay a dividend of almost 3 per cent. And this is not all, bonds stand between us and the spiral of inflation which could engulf us more easily than any enemy outside our gates. For the first time in many years, demand backed by money exceeds supply, which normally equals demand, and even stimulates it by advertising and credit purchase plans. Are we to save money against the time when we may need it, or bid for the few consumer goods that are left against ourselves?

There is one more reason for buying bonds. The President, who is also the commander in chief, has asked us to do so.

Meanwhile, while we hesitate, while we complain of nominal hardships, men die, not only fighting men, but women and small children They die for a good cause. A good reason—for freedom. But we who are not dying must pay in time and money, or we shall find ourselves dishonored. The time is short. It passes —and having passed, is forever lost.

Men in France, in Poland, in Norway—men all over Europe are regretting time—are saying: "If only we had known."

But we do know. The writing is on the wall. Corregidor, Pearl Harbor, Singapore, Dunkirk, are not dreams. They are evil things that have happened, and now this evil approaches us. It lies in wait off our coasts. Time is money but money cannot buy time, nor bring dead men to life, nor purchase freedom once it is lost.

That is why we must buy bonds now—today, and tomorrow, and the day after. Buy bonds until this thing is destroyed utterly—because time is not subject to manipulation, because the past is dead and the future mortgaged — because the world cannot live half free and half slave. Nor we, the free, allow the mortgage upon our freedom to be foreclosed. Failing now, we fail forever. Never before could so much be bought for so little. Never so much lost for lack of that little.

The fire bomb attack of a Japanese plane on a southern Oregon forest is a grim reminder of the identical hazard which the great forest areas of California also face. This is more than ever true at this season of the year, following the long and virtually rainless summer which has left our forest regions and brush-clad mountain slopes dry as a tinderbox.

Mountain vacationists should keep on the alert not only for enemy aircraft, but should be doubly careful themselves with fire in any form. This is the danger season. To the hazards of enemy action, let's not add our own carelessness!

GET IN THE SCRAP!

Urgency of the national drive for scrap metal to speed production of armaments was emphasized this week when the War Department ordered army trucks and personnel to aid in collection as far as facilities might permit without interference with normal army duties.

Transportation of heavy metal to collection depots is, of course, a problem; and this problem rests largely with individuals who have scrap to contribute. Paul C. Cabot, deputy director of the War Production Board Conservation Division, has urged householders to take their own scrap to local salvage depots—of which there are 200,000 throughout the country—wherever possible.

There are many areas, Cabot pointed out, where Army trucks are not available. Nor has the individual done his duty when he calls a scrap dealer and depends upon him to call at his house and his neighbor's. Often, in the present circumstances of transportation, trucks are available only to pick up the metal from the collection depot—where the citizen must deposit his bit.

One old flatiron may produce two steel helmets or 30 hand grenades. Nine flatirons provide metal for a six inch shell. A single electric iron may be turned into five 37-mm. anti-aircraft shells. Ten old cook stoves may carry on in the war as a scout car.

Get in the scrap! Every pound of it is precious to the war effort!

BIBLE WEEK

Throughout America, beginning the second week in October, Bible Week will be observed by many organizations and millions of individuals.

To call public attention to the occasion, the artist, Howard Chandler Chrsty, has painted a picture of Uncle Sam, symbolic of the American people, kneeling in prayer on a height above flaming battlefields, and saying: "For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever."

In Nazi Germany, the only book that could be singled out for special attention is Mein Kampf. Rejecting the Bible, Busso Loewe, author of "Creed of the German Pagan Movement," wrote shortly before the war:

"The German people need no Bible. The Edda and Sagas, Master Ekkehart and Frederick the Great, Goethe and Schiller, Hoelderlin and Nietzsche and many other great Germans were no Christians; they believed in life, in Nature and in the power of the German soul."

The concept of Hitler placing his life story above the Bible in importance, placing the writings and deeds of German authors, soldiers and philosophers above the Book that contains the Sermon on the Mount, is not only shockingly sacrilegious to Christians but also incredibly preposterous to the non-religious man of intelligence.

Already the end of Adolph Hitler' historically brief time of terrible mischief is in sight. Another year or two, and his legions that ravaged the earth will be destroyed. His sordid book, his reincarnations of pagan gods, will die with him. Like a puff of dust, he and all that he conjured into being will be gone.

The Bible, with its mystically wondrous story of the Man who never held a sword but shook the world of his time and all time with teachings that no power can destroy, will remain as long as men can read.

REGISTER!

Tonight, Sept. 24 is the deadline for registering. All those who did not vote in the 1940 elections, all those who have changed their place of residence since they last registered, must register to be eligible to vote in the November 3 elections.

In the critical and difficult period facing America, we shall need the very ablest representatives in our state and national offices. Never before has the country faced so gruelling a test as that thrust upon it by this present war whose end no one yet can see. The best statesmanship that America can muster will be none too much to bring us safely through this crucial testing time. It's your responsibility to study, weigh and choose what seems to you to be the best leadership. Unless we exercise conscientiously and faithfully our right to vote, that right, to all intents and purposes, will disappear. Privileges, once won, never remain won if we grow careless or indifferent about hem. They must be exercised and when need arises, they must be fought for—as they are being fought for today on all the continents and seven seas by the fighters for freedom—your freedom and mine.

Exercise it and, if you already haven't, register today!

Insect Repellant

Citronella, cedar oil or pine oil added to the final coat of paint will help to keep insects from settling on the painted surface while it is still wet. Usually a teaspoonful or two in a pail of paint is sufficient, and this quantity will have no bad effects on the paint.

Telephone Lines Are the Busiest In History

You Can Help Us to Help You

We want you to know that we are meeting the war emergency with everything we have, but in these critical times delays are bound to occur.

In speeding Victory, the telephone lines are busier—far busier than ever before. We cannot plan and build new lines and new switchboards, as we normally would, because copper and other strategic materials have gone to war in planes, tanks, and guns.

Unnecessary and needlessly long telephone calls should be out for "the duration." War calls must be given the green light.

Your considerate thoughtfulness in making only the most urgent calls is inspiring to all of us who are earnestly endeavoring to uphold the finest traditions of telephone service. May we also ask you to help us further to help you by being brief on all calls, by calling by number when making long distance calls, and by answering calls promptly.

Thank you.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"See Here, Private Hargrove" by Marion Hargrove.

"Democratic humour is the spleen of the normal in the presence of the abnormal." Thus spoke J. C. Powys, distinguished English author.

Good old American humor flows through this book like a a lazy river flows through a deep and dangerous gorge. The author is in the army and the seriousness of the situation looms large and foreboding all around him, yet his sense of humor steers him easily through each ordeal.

When I was reading this book I found it so funny that I could not keep it to myself. Without exception, some portion of each chapter was repeated to anyone within listening distance. It is truly an entertaining book to read aloud.

There are serious parts, yes. Every situation is not comical to Private Hargrove, but in its seriousness the situation becomes less acute through the author's eyes. The life military is seen in an entirely different light from any previous writing. There is the authentic flavor of a youthful generation that is being molded into the most modern and efficient fighting force we have ever put into the field.

When you begin to discover the Army through Hargrove's eyes, and Hargrove through the Army's, you will realize that there is, after all, a certain amount of excuse for sergeants.

Louis Untermeyer expressed his sentiments about the book in these few words, "Its chief appeal is the neat mixture of sense and nonsense. It is just the sort of book which should provide the reader with unflinching amusement throughout a long, hard summer." This long hard winter that is coming on us can also be used up to a great extent with "unflinching amusement."

I believe that a great number of us civilians, whose sons, brothers, husbands and sweethearts are in the Army, will derive a certain amount of solace from this book. It is a law and a book unto itself.

The publishers furnish this footnote. "A last minute dispatch from Fort Bragg brings the almost incredible announcement that Private Hargrove is no more. He is Corporal Hargrove now. We still find it hard to believe. So will you."

Local Theater Offers Good Productions

The local theater management is again offering the most outstanding pictures for the coming month. Stated George Arlidge, "For good entertainment and comfort we now have everything we could desire at a time when we need relaxation from the turmoil of our daily tasks."

A better program of pictures could not be wished for he said, and are equal to any that can be seen elsewhere.

"Paris Calling" and "Blondie's Blessed Event" is the first on the list followed by "Ten Gentlemen from West Point," "The Big Shot," "Ships With Wings," "Sweetheart of the Fleet." On Oct. 4, 5, 6 is the production, "This Above All" starring Tyrone Power and Joan Fontaine, and as a companion picture, "Unexpected Uncle."

Oct 7, only is "Sons of the Sea" and "Lady Gangster." Oct. 8, 9, and 10 will be shown "Mrs. Miniver," with Greer Garson. The management askes you to secure the monthly program from the theater and watch for special announcements.

RAILROAD MEN ARE BACKING DEL MUTOLO

Railroad men want Assemblyman M. G. Del Mutolo as their next State Senator from Santa Clara County.

This is the declaration made by the Brotherhood of the Railway and Steamship Clerks, which includes freight handlers, express and station employes.

In a letter to Del Mutolo, the following statement is made by Lyle B. DuFrane, chairman of the organization's legislative committee:

"It gives me great pleasure to notify you that this committee, representing the clerical, station, express and store employes on the railroads in California, heartily endorses your candidacy for the office of State Senator, 18th district, at the coming general election.

WHOLEHEARTED SUPPORT

"In view of your splendid record, we are happy to make this endorsement and to call upon our membership to exert every effort in your behalf. You can be assured of their wholehearted support in your campaign."

Similar endorsements have been given Del Mutolo by the strong Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Del Mutolo is running as an independent candidate for the vacancy which now exists in the State Senate from this county.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

When can children of school age be employed in farm work, without violation of Federal or State statutes?

In view of the present critical shortage of farm workers and the imperative need of harvesting agricultural crops to aid in the battle of production, that question has a new significance, for thousands of California farmers have hesitated to emplay minors, fearful that in so doing they would be violating the law.

Unfortunately, it is impossible, in this column, to give a complete answer to the question, for there are many statutes and regulations bearing on the subject, but at least it may be possible to clear up some of the major problems puzzling farmers.

Under the child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards act "no producer, manufacturer, or dealer shall ship or deliver for shipment in commerce any goods produced in an establishment situated in the United States, in or about which, within 30 days prior to the removal of such goods therefrom, any oppressive child labor has been employed." The only exemptions recognized are employees engaged "in agriculture while not legally required to attend school," children employed in motion pictures or theatrical productions, or children employed by their own parents in occupations other than mining and manufacturing."

Agriculture is defined in the act to include "farming in all its branches and among other things includes the cultivation and tillage of the soil, dairying, the production, cultivation, growing, and harvesting of any agricultural or horticultural commodities, the raising of livestock, bees, fur bearing animals, or poultry, and any practices (including any forestry or lumbering operations) performed by a farmer or on a farm as an incident to, or in conjunction with, such farming operations including preparation for market, delivery to storage or to market or to carriers for transportation to market."

Children under 16 years of age may be employed in "agriculture" while not legally required to attend school, according to another provision. Minors between 8 and 16, however, must attend school full time, according to the California law, unless exempted for special reasons provided by law.

Under the California permit system, no minor in California may work without a work permit, except as covered by sections pertaining to employment of children by their own parents. The basic rule is that employers must also have permits to employ all such minors and may not employ, suffer or permit them to work in such an establishment or occupation without such a permit.

The permit system applies to all employment, including agriculture, whether the employment is full-time or part-time, during the school year or during vacations.

The State Department of Education, however, has set up a new procedure governing the employment of minors over 16 years of age in the canning and processing of fruits and vegetables, in view of the war emergency. This procedure differs from the regular permit system, in that the employer is not required to have a separate permit to hire each individual minor child, nor is the child required to have a permit for a specific job. The child is given an identification card, which entitles him to work during the period specified on the card, for any canner or processor holding a blanket permit to employ. The canner or processor is entitled to hire any minor holding such an identification card.

Employment by a parent, or a person standing in place of a parent, of his own child or a child in his custody, under 16 years of age, is further defined, as an occupation other than manufacturing or mining, as employment which cannot be designated as oppressive child labor under the Federal Fair Labor Standards act.

California agriculture cannot afford to haggle over those definitions. California agriculture, perforce, must obey them. But California farmers, knowing full well the job that is ahead of them must employ kid farmers in making good on the task assigned them! That is the story, insofar as agriculture is concerned.

POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

The bitter battle for Governor of California, in which Earl Warren has a big edge due to his smashing 2-to-1 victory over Governor Olson at the primary, has boiled over into many of the contests for other state offices and promises to color the outcome of the whole General Election campaign.

Several of the candidates for other state posts are boldly following the lead of Senator-elect Jack Tenney of Los Angeles, who won election at the primary with a slashing, spectacular campaign in which he told voters of his district:

"If you are for Olson and Olsonism, then don't vote for me!"

Fred Houser, the GOP nominee for Lientenant Governor, and Wallace Ware, the Republican candidate for Attorney General, while they have not used Tenney's exact words, are apparently following the same strategy in their current appeals to the voters and repercussions are certain to follow.

It is an open secret that neither Lientenant Governor Ellis E. Patterson nor Senator Robert W. Kenny, the Democratic nominee for Attorney General, have any particular political affection for Governor Olson, and that they consider the Governor a liability to the Democratic ticket. In the past, however, both have been openly aligned with the Governor. The problem they confront now is whether to risk an open break with Olson or whether they should ignore the issue of Olsonism and try to ride out the storm.

A dash of tobasco also has been injected into the legislative contests by the Warren-Olson battle, with many of the candidates for the Senate and Assembly publicly condemning Governor Olson's administration and asking the voters of their districts to repudiate Olsonism when they go to the polls.

Of the 100 seats in the state legislature at issue in this year's elections, 67 were captured at the primary by candidates who won the nominations of both major parties, but there are still 33 legislative contests to be determined at the November election. Twenty-nine of the remaining legislative battles are for seats in the Assembly and four involve contests for membership in the Senate.

Olson Democrats took a bad lacing in the legislative contests at the primary and there is every indication that the majority of the members in both houses of the legislature will be friendly if he is elected Governor.

YOUR ELECTRIC SYSTEM WORKERS

UNSEEN and unheard, with no brass band effects, the Electric Power workers are doing a magnificent job for the nation at war.

We think something should be said about the men who night and day are supplying the power, light and heat so urgently needed for production of more and more ships, tanks, planes and guns for our fighting men.

The scene is the same in any one of the scores of generating stations scattered through central and northern California. At the switchboard stands the operator, his eyes on a maze of indicators and signal lights, his ears attuned to the hum and throb of turbines and generators.

From that powerhouse, tucked away in some remote mountain canyon, flows a part of an endless stream of Electricity with a massed strength equivalent to that of 16 million men available to drive the motors of the war industries.

Distribution is governed in the office of the Load Dispatcher, strategically located in a central city. Here is the nerve center of the entire electric system, controlling the dispatch of Electric Power over thousands of miles of interconnected wires, meeting the emergencies of constantly changing load conditions, upholding the P. G. and E. tradition, "Electric Service whenever and wherever it is needed."

Careful planning has built up this system. Our organization is the product of years of work and years of preparation. Every one of our 9000 operating employees follows the watchword, "Efficiency." They, too, are part of the civilian army for the defense and protection of the United States.
